Directorate General of Military Training Identification and Nurturing of Budding/Young Talent

Indian Army has been in the forefront of promoting sports since Independence. The Indian Army has a comprehensive strategy in place to seek talent at the grassroots level. Directorate General of Military Training (DGMT) is the nodal agency responsible for executing this strategy. Since 1991, the Army Boys Sports Company has been functioning under the aegis of DGMT and in conjunction with Sports Authority of India with the aim of identifying and grooming young and budding potential talent in selected sports disciplines to achieve sporting excellence.

There are at present 18 Army Boys Sports Companies, which especially target the remote areas of the country for scouting talent between the tender age of 9 to 13 years in 21 different sports disciplines.

To nurture the talent at the intermediate level, Army has established a grid of 19 Army Sports Nodes where 31 sports disciplines are being nurtured. These nodes also select and nurture young talent both from the field army as also from civil population and recruit them through the sports quota scheme.

In recognition of its contribution in the field of 'Identification and Nurturing of Budding/Young Talent', the Rashtriya Khel Protsahan Puruskar for the year 2015 is being conferred upon Directorate General of Military Training.
